

Meaningful Memories

Colloquium at Aarhus University

Wednesday 15th April 2020, 12.30 – 18.00

Place: 1483-312 IMC Meeting Room

The Danish Forum for Renaissance Studies and the Cultural Encounter project, Carlsberg Foundation, invites you to join us for the colloquium Meaningful Memories.

Drawing on themes from cultural memory studies we will explore how memory as a concept can be used to shed light on the tension field between canon and archives in the Early Modern period. We will study the tension between the actual use of texts, practices and models, and the potential of the full body of material in existence. In doing so, we will discuss memory as passive or active praxis; the relationship between sources and contexts of interpretation - especially how selection, interpretation, presentation and preservation affect this relationship; and memory as including or excluding praxis.

Participation is free and includes light refreshments. Due to practical reasons we do request that you register by sending an email to klftjah@cas.au.dk no later than March 15th.

The colloquium will be held in English.

The colloquium is generously funded by The Carlsberg Foundation.

Speakers

Prof. Dr. Marianne Pade

School of Culture and Society, Classical Philology, Aarhus University

Trine Arlund Hass, PhD

HM Queen Margrethe II's Distinguished Postdoc, The Danish Academy in Rome & Aarhus University

Anders Kirk Borggaard, PhD Fellow

Cultural Encounter, Aarhus University

Lærke Maria Andersen Funder, PhD

Part-time lecturer, Centre for Museology, Aarhus University

Maren Rode Pihlkjær, Cand.mag.

Classical Philology, Aarhus University

Dr. Johann Ramminger

Thesaurus Linguae Latinae-Institute at the Bavarian Academy of Sciences, Munich

Matthew Norris, PhD

Research fellow, Department of the History of Ideas and Science, Lund University

